

Appointment of authorised representatives and advocates

Last updated: January 2025

There may be times when you need to grant access to another person to manage your telco services on your behalf. This can be due to a wide range of reasons such as:

- Physical or mental illness
- Disability
- Cognitive impairment
- Extended travel
- Business management purposes.

If you are a More customer, you can give another person access to your account in order to make changes, or to discuss issues with us. See below to understand the different authority types and how to grant another person access to your account.

The different levels of authority – Residential Customers

Account Holder

The person whose name the account is in. The account holder has full permissions to access, discuss and manage the account, and will receive the account invoices. The Account Holder will continue to receive all transactional emails, even if they have appointed a Full Authority and/or Third-Party Authorised Representative.

Full Authority Representative

A person appointed as a Full Authority Representative will also have the ability to access, discuss and manage your account. This includes:

- Purchase new services;
- Cancel existing services;
- Access all account information, including billing history;
- Communicate with us on behalf of the account holder;
- View and modify account details, including contact and address information;
- Transfer ownership of your services;
- Replace a SIM for a service on your account;
- Add and remove other authorised representatives or advocates;
- Pay bills;
- Raise faults and complaints.

All transactional account notifications and invoices for the account will go to the Third-Party Authorised Representative, and to the account holder too. You can appoint a maximum of 5 Full Authority Representatives or Third-Party Authorised Representatives.

IMPORTANT: The account holder remains responsible for any costs or debts incurred by the authorised representative on your account (e.g. changes to a higher cost plan, new services, modem purchases etc).

Third-Party Authorised Representative

A person appointed as a Third-Party Representative will also have the ability to access, discuss and manage your account. This includes:

- Purchase new services;
- Cancel existing services;
- Access all account information, including billing history;
- Communicate with us on behalf of the account holder;
- View and modify account details, including contact and address information;
- Transfer ownership of your services;
- Replace a SIM for a service on your account;
- Add and remove other authorised representatives or advocates;

- Pay bills;
- Raise faults and complaints.

All transactional account notifications for the account will go to the Third-Party Authorised Representative, and to the account holder too. You can appoint a maximum of 5 Full Authority Representatives or Third-Party Authorised Representatives.

IMPORTANT: The account holder remains responsible for any costs or debts incurred by the authorised representative on your account (e.g. changes to a higher cost plan, new services, modem purchases etc).

Advocate

An appointed advocate will only have the ability to communicate with us about your account on your behalf whilst you are present, such as by discussing technical or complaint issues. However, an advocate does not have authority to make changes to the account. This means that we are unable to take instructions from an advocate (even if they are just communicating the account holder's instructions). You can appoint a maximum of 3 Advocates.

An advocate can:

- Communicate with us on behalf of the account holder;
- Discuss issues or concerns on behalf of the account holder;
- Raise faults and complaints.

An advocate cannot:

- Make changes to the account or any services;
- Access your account information (unless the account holder is also present and agrees);
- Transfer ownership of your services;
- Replace a SIM for a service on your account;
- Add or remove other authorised representatives or advocates.

If English is not your first language, or you're d/Deaf or find it hard to speak to hearing people on the phone, you do not need to appoint an advocate to speak with us (although you can if you want). To contact us without an advocate:

- if you are d/Deaf or find it hard to speak to hearing people on the phone you can make a call to us through the National Relay Service (free service);
- if English isn't your first language, you can access personal translating and interpreting services through TIS National (fees apply).

The different levels of authority – Business Representatives

Account Holder

The person and business whose name the account is in. The account holder has full permission to access, discuss and manage the account, and will receive the account invoices. The Account Holder will continue to receive all transactional emails, even if they have appointed a Primary Business Representative and/or Secondary Business Representative.

Primary Business Representative

A business may appoint up to 5 Primary Business Representatives to act on their behalf. The Primary Business Representative has full authority to access, discuss and manage your account. This includes:

- Purchase new services;
- Cancel existing services;
- Access all account information, including billing history;
- Communicate with us on behalf of the account holder;
- View and modify account details, including contact and address information;
- Transfer ownership of your services;

- Replace a SIM for a service on your account;
- Add and remove other authorised representatives or advocates;
- Pay bills;
- Raise faults and complaints.

All transactional account notifications for the account will go to the Primary Business Representative, and to the account holder too.

IMPORTANT: The account holder remains responsible for any costs or debts incurred by the Primary Business Representative on your account (e.g. changes to a higher cost plan, new services, modem purchases etc).

Secondary Business Representative

A business may appoint up to 20 Secondary Business Representatives to act on their behalf in a limited capacity. The Secondary Business Representative has limited authority to access, discuss and manage your account, but cannot:

- Purchase new services;
- Cancel existing services;
- Transfer ownership of your services;
- Replace a SIM for a service on your account;
- Add and remove other authorised representatives or advocates
- Access all account information, including billing history.

A Secondary Business Representative can:

- Raise faults and complaints;
- Make tech support enquiries
- Request account assistance.

How do I appoint an authorised representative or advocate?

Residential Customers

If you are the account holder, you can add an authorised representative or advocate by:

- Logging into the Portal and adding your authorised representative details under 'Account'.
- Calling us and providing the details of your authorised representative or advocate;
- Filling out the below form. We will need to contact you to conduct identity verification to confirm that you initiated this request.

Typically, only the account holder can appoint an authorised representative or advocate. Occasionally, we may allow someone who is not the account holder to appoint an authorised representative. This may be relevant for:

- An executor of estate for the account holder;
- Guardianship Order;
- Power of Attorney etc.

If you are not the account holder, you can add an authorised representative by:

- Filling out the below form;
- Submitting appropriate evidence that confirm your position. This might be power of attorney, guardianship order, administration order etc. Any document that you supply must be certified.

Please note: you can only have a maximum of 5 authorised representatives (either Full Authority Representative and Third-Party Authority Representatives) and 3 advocates on your account at any time.

Business customers:

If you are the account holder, you can add a:

- Primary Business Representative by:
 - Calling us and providing the details of your authorised representative; or
 - Filling out the b
- Secondary Business Representative by:
 - Logging into the Portal and adding your authorised representative details under 'Account'.

- Calling us and providing the details of your authorised representative;
- Filling out the below form for Business customers.

IMPORTANT: We may require proof of authority to add a Primary Business Representative and/Secondary Business Representative.

How do I remove an appointed authorised representative or advocate?

Residential and Business customers:

You can revoke an appointment of an advocate or authorised representative at any time. To remove an authorised representative:

- If you are the account holder and you added an authorised representative through the Portal, you can log into the Portal and remove the authorised representative by clicking the 'Account' section.
- If you are an appointed authorised representative, you can remove yourself or another authorised representative by calling us on 13 66 73. We will need to verify that you are the account holder.

Bereavement care

We understand that losing a loved one is an incredibly difficult and stressful time, so we want to make it as easy as possible to help you manage their services. You can choose to transfer the services to another account or cancel the services.

How do I transfer or cancel the services?

To transfer or cancel the services, you must be:

- An Executor, Trustee or Administrator of the Estate;
- Next of kin;
- A lawyer administering the will;
- An authorised representative on the account; or
- The account holder.

Fill out the attached form called 'Bereavement support form' and we will action your request. You will need to supply certified evidence of your authority to manage the services (e.g. letters of administration).

If you are transferring a mobile service, you will need to provide ID verification.
